United Communities

Even though the word 'bank' is in our name, what we're really about is 'United Communities.' Our bankers work both inside and outside our buildings to make their communities better places to live, and to create vibrant business environments.

This is one of many things that make United Community Bank unique. Our bankers know their cities, towns and counties. They know the markets. They know the business owners. And they know the people.

Partnerships

Hand-in-hand with knowing our communities is involvement in organizations and agencies that drive local business – chambers of commerce, economic development committees and small business associations. Throughout United's footprint, bankers at all levels of the organization not only serve on local chambers but also hit the pavement, meeting with businesses as chamber ambassadors and non-profit agency volunteers.

Building Blocks

The heartbeat of every town is its small businesses; the independent contractors, entrepreneurs, neighborhood stores, shops and restaurants. These small businesses are the lifeblood of an economy, and our bankers not only know most of the owners, but have helped many of them get their businesses off the ground. Our people also continue working with these business owners to provide the financial services they need to remain successful.

The largest economic engines in western North Carolina this past year were professional/business services and retail. These sectors alone accounted for more than 1,200 of the 2,700 jobs created in the region in 2007. Population in this region is expected to grow at about two percent per year – most will be affluent transplants from other parts of the country. This vibrant and growing economy – rooted in small business and residential growth – is a building block of growth for United Community Bank.

The Growing Season

Spring is the time of year for new blossoms and buds. For United Community Bank, it's always the growing season. In May, green plants were abundant at each United location during the bank's annual Customer Appreciation Day. Again in 2007, 'Tomato Day' drew thousands of customers, community members and friends, with more than 250,000 plants distributed company wide.

Also sprouting from the ground in 2007 was a new permanent bank building in Cleveland, Tennessee. Last year, Cleveland's deposits grew by more than 79 percent during the year – nearly 60 percent in core deposits. In addition, the bank experienced impressive loan growth during the year, seeing its total loans increase more than 140 percent. Like Cleveland, all United Banks work each day to grow their business through increased deposits and by attracting new customers.

Growth like this doesn't occur automatically. Just like tomato plants, individual customer relationships require nurturing and attention to thrive.

Cultivating Our Next Generation

Growing our next generation of leaders, bankers and consumers is a priority for United. Through the 'Our School Bank' program, elementary school students have the opportunity to operate their own banks. Meanwhile, high school seniors put their business and volunteerism skills to work as part of our Junior Boards of Directors.

In Tennessee and throughout our footprint, United Community Bank is committed to growth - one customer at a time.

A Budding Region

The east Tennessee corridor from Chattanooga to Knoxville is one of the state's fastest-growing regions. The Cleveland/Bradley County area is home to 13 Fortune 500 manufacturing companies. Meanwhile, Forbes magazine this year rated Knoxville as #5 in their 'Best Places for Business and Careers' list. Site Selection magazine has rated the east Tennessee region as the fifth 'Best Overall Business Climate' in the U.S. Strong communities are key to United Community Bank's growth strategy.

For the Fun of It

Keeping our eye on the ball is a top priority. United Community Bank is also committed to saying 'thank you' to our many devoted customers, not only through Customer Appreciation Day, but also through sponsorship of community celebrations, participation in hometown parades and Christmas tree lightings. Bringing together bank leaders, community leaders, employees, directors and customers on a regular basis is one way that we remain a United family.

Curtain Call

Bank employees take to the stage each year for a community tradition known as 'The Bankers Hour.' Music, comedy and family entertainment are the order of the day as thousands flock to see our employees' talents on display.

Aside from entertaining customers, employees and neighbors, The Bankers Hour also raises money for non-profit and charitable organizations. In 2007, this event raised $20,800 that was distributed throughout United's communities.

A Worldwide Stage

While the lights are on United employees in The Bankers Hour, the international cycling spotlight turns to Georgia each spring as cyclists from all over the world converge on the Peach State for the Tour de Georgia, North America's premier cycling event.

In 2007, United Community Bank was once again a Founding Sponsor of the Tour that traversed north Georgia and southeast Tennessee. Cyclists from 15 countries participated in the '07 Tour that passed through and stopped in several of our bank communities including Peachtree City, Fairburn, Rome, Summerville, Buford, as well as Towns, Union, Fannin and Gilmer counties before ending in Atlanta's Centennial Park.

Keeping cycling close to home, United Community Bank also sponsored an amateur cycling team that competed in 50 races in 2007. The team had an amazing year racing at events throughout the Southeast, and had 10 wins – more than any other amateur team in the state. Along the way, they traveled through many bank communities and waved the United flag throughout the region.

Right At Home...Strategically

United Community Bank calls more than 60 communities home, with 111 locations and 2,028 employees. Georgia, North Carolina and Tennessee are graced with hundreds of towns, villages and cities that anyone would be proud to call home. United has outlined a strategy identifying the most vibrant of these communities that hold the greatest promise of growth, stability and strength of business environment.

Room to Grow

Did you know that if Atlanta were a country, it would have the 28th largest gross domestic product in the world? Add the entire southeast U.S. to the mix, and it would be the sixth largest. Metro Atlanta also has the third-highest concentration of Fortune 500 headquarters in the country and attracts a steady flow of young families, urban professionals and new businesses – so many, in fact, that metro Atlanta is expected to add one million people by 2012.

Total bank deposits in greater Atlanta are currently $113 billion, of which United Community Bank has two percent. Why is this important? Because we have significant room for future growth.

Footprint of Success

United Community Bank's footprint is the map of locations and regions where we do business. One of our key strengths over the years has been to strategically grow into lucrative markets that will offer our shareholders the highest rate of return. Starting in Union County, through most of north Georgia, coastal Georgia, east Tennessee, western North Carolina and now the perimeter of Atlanta, we have a strong presence in many of the country's most thriving areas.

A Mutually Beneficial Expansion

With the addition of First Bank of the South in mid-2007, we have now completed our strategy of totally encircling the city of Atlanta. This new partnership has also enhanced our leadership in metro Atlanta and added valuable expertise in commercial lending. This not only gives United Community Bank a new opportunity but also allows us to better diversify our loan portfolio.

Our ability to grow in Atlanta and other new markets is due to the performance of our banks and bankers in established markets. Meanwhile, our success in Atlanta helps to strengthen our bank overall.

Port of Call

Most think of the beauty and history of coastal Georgia, but the region is also a thriving industrial and business community fueled by ports and large industry, as well as tourism. The region is also known for its very discriminating consumers – people who not only appreciate customer service, but expect it.

Unparalleled customer service is our cornerstone. This is one major reason why United Community Bank has created a niche in coastal Georgia. Our customer satisfaction ratings have historically been above 90 percent - well above the banking industry average of 77 percent. 2007 was a milestone year for United's customer satisfaction ratings with an average of 92.76 percent. In November, bank employees earned our highest ever company-wide customer satisfaction score: 95.32 percent.

Our banks in Savannah and the Brunswick area consistently lead the pack when it comes to customer satisfaction scores. For example, Waycross led the company with a 97.97 percent customer satisfaction rating ... a huge achievement in the banking industry.

Keeping Score

Customer service and satisfaction can be soft terms when judged by attitude, word of mouth or return business. United Community Bank, however, takes a databased approach to measuring how our customers feel about the service they receive.

A very stringent set of criteria is provided to actual United customers who regularly visit each of our banks. They then assess the service they receive against these tough standards. The result is a monthly report that specifically details the customer satisfaction performance of each United bank location.

Treat Customers as We Expect to be Treated

This is United Community Bank's 'Golden Rule of Banking.' These are not just words found on posters or wall plaques. It is the very foundation for who we are ... and like our commitment to being the best community bank anywhere, it is a philosophy that will never change. In coastal Georgia and in banks throughout our footprint, it is our absolute dedication to our customers, shareholders and to the areas we call home that makes United Community Bank 'The Bank That SERVICE Built.'

To Our Shareholders >>

You have seen in this annual report that our banks are part of the most beautiful and friendly communities in the country. They are vibrant, growing areas proudly served by the 2,028 outstanding bankers who are United Community Bank.

As a shareholder, you have enjoyed steady, consistent double-digit growth in earnings per share for many, many years. This extraordinary performance has been the norm for our shareholders and the standard for our company. There are very few companies – inside or outside of banking – that can make this claim. The past year was overshadowed by factors that caused the price of our shares to fall by half:

- margin pressure
- credit issues
- the Penland fraud; and
- uncertainty of the economy.

First, the cost of deposits, the bank's funding source, has become much more expensive. This coupled with the aggressive interest rate reductions by the Federal Reserve has lowered loan rates, which in the short term puts a squeeze on our margins.

Secondly, the bread and butter of our business has been real estate lending but the supply of homes and lots on the market greatly exceeds demand today. Therefore, the slowdown of home and property sales over the past year has resulted in a lower level of new loans for our bank and an increase in problem credits. Though our credit quality indicators are below our target range, by those measures we still are outperforming our peer group of banks.

Less loan volume means lower revenues but as the economy improves, so should our loan growth. Strategically, we see future loan growth coming from expansion of our small business offerings in metropolitan Atlanta.

Third, the Village of Penland was an elaborate and fraudulent lending scheme that victimized a dozen banks; unfortunately, we were one of them.

We regret this and have taken aggressive steps to minimize the possibility of something like this happening again in the future. Having said this, it happened on my watch and I am fully accountable.

At the end of 2007, given the uncertainty of the economy, we made the decision to increase our loan loss reserve to the highest level in 10 years. This positions us in the best possible way as we move into 2008.

Finally, a significant contributor to our declining stock price was the national economy. The economic downturn has had a dramatic impact on financial and bank company stocks for the reasons mentioned above. And while we have been outperforming many of the publicly traded banks, the market has used a broad brush when it comes to stock valuation. We believe that the underlying strength of United Community Banks positions us well, once the economy begins to recover.

United Community Banks has a solid financial base, strong reserves and an outstanding reputation. Together we have carefully built this bank one customer at a time over the past 58 years. During that time we have certainly seen many cycles in the economy. We will not endanger all we have achieved with a knee-jerk reaction to a short-term condition. We are going to continue the 'blocking and tackling' – the fundamentals - that have made us 'The Bank That SERVICE Built': customer care, personal service and community involvement.

While there were challenges last year, I also am excited to report many successes. These accomplishments demonstrate that United's philosophy and business model continue to work well and provide the foundation of our confidence and optimism about our future.

In 2007:

- Assets exceeded $8 billion.
- Operating earnings per share was $1.48; GAAP earnings was $1.24.
- We opened five de novo offices, bringing the total number to 20 opened over the past three years.
 These 20 offices are cumulatively profitable and have contributed $629 million in loans and $443 million in deposits to the franchise.

- First Bank of the South joined the United family, becoming our 27th community bank. The bank's five locations in Gwinnett, DeKalb and north Fulton counties have enabled us to encircle Atlanta.
- Customer satisfaction scores reached record highs, and we continued to see a steady increase in new accounts.
 These are excellent indicators that loan and deposit growth will resume when the economy improves.

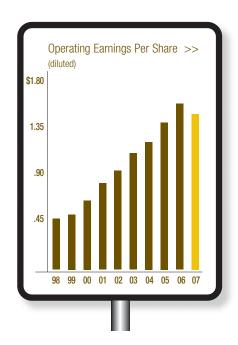

Further, our banking communities continue to grow. Population within the United footprint is expected to increase 13 percent in the next five years – more than twice the national average. For this and many other reasons our markets are among the best in the country, which means we have significant future opportunity for growth. As the economy rebounds your company is well positioned to take full advantage.

Total Revenue >> Total revenue rose 10 percent to $299.5 million despite a challenging operating environment and a significant increase in the provision for loan losses.

I am also very proud of the fact that our banks have not wavered from our commitment to community service – and they never will. United's commitment to our communities and their residents does not vary with economic cycles.

As a testament to this:

- United Community Banks was again a
 National Team Partner of The American Cancer Society Relay for Life. In the process, our bankers took to the tracks and raised a total of $215,000 in the fight against cancer.
- Many communities in coastal Georgia were ravaged by wildfires, and United bankers from nearly all locations responded generously with monetary donations, clothing, household supplies and countless hours of volunteer time.
- Our bankers continue to devote a great deal of volunteer time to education. As one example, they teach elementary school children the importance of saving money through 'Our School Bank.' They also mentor our next generation of community bankers and leaders through the Junior Boards of Directors and many other programs.

The hard work of United bankers – in building both better communities and long-lasting relationships within them – makes me very proud. The value of these contributions may not be immediately apparent in our balance sheet. Our present and future customers notice it, though, and want to do business with a bank that is truly dedicated to its neighbors. My heartfelt thanks go to each and every United banker for representing the bank so selflessly and strengthening our positive reputation every day.

In addition, I want to recognize two outstanding board members who have announced their retirement: Thomas C. Gilliland and Clarence W. Mason, Sr. I offer my thanks for their dedication and many years of service to our bank.

I know I speak for all employees and shareholders in offering Tom and Junior my warmest wishes for a long and healthy retirement.

The past year presented many challenges to the United family, and given the uncertainty of the residential construction and the housing markets, we realize that 2008 will be demanding as well. I am confident, however, that with our experienced, professional and skilled bankers leading the way, United Community Banks will continue to go 'the extra mile' no matter the challenges.

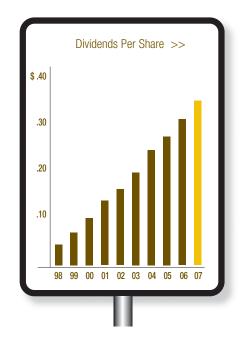

We will go the extra mile in attracting and retaining highly motivated bankers who have a passion for service in their hearts.

We will go the extra mile in ensuring that each customer who walks through our doors has the United Community Bank experience of genuinely caring service. We will go the extra mile to create value for our shareholders who have not only invested their money in our company, but also their confidence and trust.
